Date: July 14, 2018

BE PREPARED. BE CAUTIOUS. BE READY

Showers and thunderstorms are again in the forecast from the Valley to the high country Tuesday, but they won't be nearly as numerous as seen on Monday.

While showers and storms can't be ruled out this morning, the best chances will be this evening. The best chances will also be for those areas that did not see storm activity Monday.

The main threats with any developing thunderstorms will be heavy downpours, localized flooding, strong winds, blowing dust, lightning and hail. Storm chances ramp up Wednesday and again this weekend, but the threat of storms is in the forecast each day this week.

Storm chances range from 20 percent to 40 percent each day this week for the Community. The forecast high for Tuesday is 97 with a 40 percent chance of storms, and a low of 81 tonight with a 30 percent chance of storms. Highs will

For those GRIC Employees who work outdoors. Here are some safety tips on dust storm/blowing dust:

- Gusty winds can get up to 45mph creating localized blowing dust and lower visibilities.
- Strong cross winds and shifting winds through gaps and canyons will create difficult driving conditions for high profile.
- Don't be in a hurry.
- If you encounter blowing dust area, pull off the road as far as possible and put your vehicle in park. Turn the lights all the way off and keep your foot off the brake pedal.
- Residents are encouraged to check on family members and elder neighbors.
- Remember...pull aside...stay alive!!
